Medical Surveillance Software

Simple, Stress-Free Medical Surveillance

Managing medical surveillance programs for workers exposed to multiple stressors can be a complex and time-consuming task.

Inadequately monitored medical surveillance can result in ineffective tracking and management of worker health, increasing health risks and potential regulatory non-compliance.

Designed by certified industrial hygienists, VelocityEHS Medical Surveillance tackles these complexities head-on, unifying program stakeholders in one easy-to-use system. Easily set up access for third-party occupational health providers to handle exams, track exposure histories, and input data directly—greatly easing your management load. With the ability to automatically enroll & de-enroll workers in the right surveillance programs based on SEG status, you can better protect your workers while simplifying compliance and preventing unnecessary tests as roles or exposure conditions change. Trust Velocity to help you safeguard your workforce with precision and care.
